New Release!
I Love When We Talk

I Love When We Talk teaches parents how best to communicate with their baby, toddler, preschool and early school child. As we know, talking with children provides a solid basis for literacy and learning.

I Love When We Talk was produced with support from Success By 6, BC Association of Speech/Language Pathologists and many other early-learning groups and associations.

The Literacy of Video Games: What Kids Learn, How We Can Help and Why It Matters

This DVD includes expert guidance about how to value the literacies already inherent in video games while addressing the more controversial aspects of game play.

It includes interviews with researchers from the University of Victoria, and features Kirsten Andersen, Teen Services Librarian from the Greater Victoria Public Library. Kirsten talks about how video games are being integrated into libraries in Canada and the U.S.

30 copies of this new release are already a part of the Toronto Public Library.

Read-TV

The six stories in Read-TV are captioned. Study after study have shown that captioning helps children learn to read. Read-TV's captioning is large, colourful and context-sensitive.

For the emergent reader, Read-TV helps children understand that those squiggles on the screen are words and that those words carry meaning.
